SCOTLAND'S MYSTERY MAN WINS RESPITE

Fights to Clear Name After 19 Years in Prison.

Glasgow.—Scotland's "Man in the Iron Mask," set free after 19 years behind the bars of Forth prison under the name of Oscar Slater, is fighting before the Scottish Court of Session to clear his name of the charge of being an infamous murderer.

Who he was before he became a prisoner, no one knows. He came forward to say: All that is known of him to this day is that he is a Scottish Jew and has a sister living in Glasgow.

Many Call Him Innocent. Behind the iron mask of Slater's impassive face is an innocent man, declares many eminent men in Scotland headed by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, creator of Sherlock Holmes. But according to the law Slater is the murderer of Miss Marion Gilchrist, a wealthy and elderly Glasgow eccentric who was killed by a blow on the head with a hammer.

Slater's own fight is responsible for much of his mystery. Scotland's best detectives in years have not been able to learn who he really is, and Slater refuses to bring truth to his family by admitting his identity. Just as no historian can say who was the first man to walk on the moon, so there is no one in Britain who can say who the man known as Oscar Slater was.

When Slater was freed from prison in 1908, when his freedom was matched from him in New York, he was a man of 35. He was a Jew, a Scottish Jew, and a man of letters. He was a man of letters, a man of letters, a man of letters.

After Slater had been supposedly connected with the murder, it developed that the diamond brooch which Slater had been wearing at the time of the murder, was not his. Slater's own property, pawned before the murder.

Trapped by New York detectives on a canal boat, Slater was held until Miss Helen Lantieri, Miss Gilchrist's maid, together with a girl and a man who lived in the flat below Miss Gilchrist, went to New York and said they thought he was the murderer.

Slater returned to Scotland expecting quick release, and his trial in Scotland was going on quietly for the last two decades was the result of a public opinion Slater's sentence was committed to life imprisonment.

Since then prominent men, as well as Slater himself, have steadily maintained his innocence. In recent years Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, a large extent responsible for Slater's recent release, Sir Arthur maintained that the identification of Slater was wholly unfair.

In this vision the Lord appeared and instructed him to go to Saul. He gave him the name of the street and Saul was now a praying man, and he had prepared Saul by the vision for the coming of Ananias.

He knew of Saul's ministry and the authority by which he came. The Lord encouraged him to go, assuring him that Saul was no longer an enemy but a chosen vessel to bear his name before the Gentiles.

Ananias' obedience (v. 17). His fears being removed, Ananias went to the house where Saul was staying, put his hand on him and said: "Saul, the Lord has sent me to you. He has freed you from your blindness, and now you must be baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ. Get up and be baptized." Saul was baptized, and he was now a praying man, and he had prepared Saul by the vision for the coming of Ananias.

God Does Not Forsake Them. Suppose that all men forsake or forget their God: does not His grace then, His heart feels for them? He is not a God who is blind. He is not a God who is blind. He is not a God who is blind.

A Heavenly Vision. To a holy heart is vouchsafed a heavenly vision. Eyes that are cleared of the mists of sin behold unveiled the face of the Lord.—Edwards.
